EXPLORAVISION AWARDS 2010: REGISTRATION NOW OPEN

Tomorrow's innovations come from today's young minds.

Are your students hard at work preparing their ExploraVision projects to meet the February 2 entry deadline? Sponsored by Toshiba and administered by the National Science Teachers Association (NSTA), ExploraVision is a science competition that encourages K – 12 students to create and explore a vision of a future technology. Register online here.

Tips for teachers:

- Brainstorming is a fun and helpful way to think of ideas for a project. While brainstorming, have your students come up with as many ideas as possible without limiting their thinking. Click here for more on brainstorming.
- Find a mentor — often a parent — who can help provide both expertise and general assistance. When choosing a topic, encourage your students to consider their mentor's area of expertise. Click here for more on choosing a topic.
- In forming a team you may want to choose students who show the most interest. You could also use the competition as a class project and have all your students work in teams on an ExploraVision project. Click here for more on motivating your team.

We hope these tips are helpful as you consider your ExploraVision project. And, most of all, we hope you have fun!

Good Luck!
